

REMINDER: 2019 Southern Regional Science (SRSA)

Barry M. Moriarty Graduate Paper Competition

Papers due by February 15, 2019!

The Southern Regional Science Association (SRSA) awards an annual cash prize to the graduate student submitting the best paper in Regional Science. In 2018, the prize was $1,000.

Papers on any Regional Science topic may be entered into the competition. Papers should represent original research. Maps, illustrations and other audio-visual materials should be designed or constructed by the author.

The following qualifications apply:

- The student must be enrolled full-time at an accredited academic institution for some or all of the year. The graduate student must still be enrolled at the time his or her paper is submitted;
- The student must be the sole author and must be sponsored by a member of SRSA; and
- The winning student must present the paper at a session of the Annual Meeting of the SRSA, using the award to defray costs of attending.

Papers should be double-spaced, no more than 25 pages in length, and written in the style of the SRSA's Review of Regional Studies. A cover page should include the paper's title and abstract and, for both the author and the sponsor, full names, addresses, telephone numbers, and e-mail addresses.

A copy of the paper must be submitted via e-mail to Santiago Pinto (santiago.pinto@rich.frb.org), Graduate Paper Honors Chair.

Deadline for submission: February 15, 2019

If you need an extension of a few days past this deadline, contact Dr. Pinto to see if he can accommodate you.

Applicants for the Moriarty Graduate Paper Competition should also submit their paper abstracts using the regular conference submission portal. When submitting, on the first line of the abstract, type "Moriarty Graduate Paper Competition." In this way, the program chair will hold enough slots for all applicants on the program."

More information at: <http://www.srsa.org/conference/barry-m-moriarty-graduate-paper-competition/>